

SECOND TEAM SERIES IS ON

Opening Game of Youngsters In Triangular School League Today.

Today is the opening of the season for the second team in the triangular league consisting of Punahou, Kanehameha and St. Louis schools, and the first game in the series is the one being played at Kanehameha this afternoon between that team and the Puns.

The youngsters in the schools are promising material for later years in the game, and the ball they will put up in this series will be such that it will be well worth going to see.

Nine games will be played in the series, and five days is the longest period between any two, the whole of the games being finished May 27, when Punahou and St. Louis cross bats at Punahou for the closing exhibition.

Each of the teams believe that it can win out in the series now on, and there is going to be some hot scrapping before the season is over.

The game today starts at 3:30, and a crowd of fans will go along with the Puns, while all Kanehameha will be there on the home grounds to root for their team.

The Schedule.

May 3—Punahou vs. Kanehameha, at Kanehameha.

May 6—Punahou vs. St. Louis, at Punahou.

May 9—St. Louis vs. Kanehameha, at Kanehameha.

IF BUSINESS INTERFERES WITH YACHTING, CUT OUT BUSINESS

That Is the Motto of Charles Julien, Member of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club. Now In Honolulu—Tells of Sport In Northwest and that No Yacht from There Can Enter Trans-Pacific Race.

"I went down to Pearl Harbor with the yacht Sunday and found a great place for a triangular race," said Charles O. Julien, an enthusiastic member of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, today.

Julien is a breezy chap who can talk yachting by the hour and never grows tired of it. In fact, he says that yachting is his sole outdoor hobby, and when business interferes with yachting he just cuts out business.

Asked if it were possible for Vancouver to enter a yacht for the next trans-Pacific race, Julien stated that it was not, as the yachtsmen there used smaller boats and the building of a larger boat for such a trip was out of the question.

"Our yachts in the Northwest are smaller boats and we race in sight of land all the time," said Julien. "We can turn out 17,000 people to see a race in Vancouver any time over the twelve-mile triangular course that we use there."

"For years the boats have been built for this race, and they are so evenly matched that they will cross the finish line almost in a bunch, so close together that it is hard to see who is the winner."

The Royal club has its yacht raffied off each year after the race is over, and it is then made into a cruising boat by the winner generally.

"Vancouver is only 21 years old now, and the present generation is too busy making money for the next generation to spend to go into the trans-Pacific race. Our children may build yachts that will take part in the trans-Pacific race, but for us our regular races with the smaller boats, where they all finish in a bunch, where all the spectators can see the entire race and where there is something of interest every moment, will do."

"I have met the fellows of the yacht club here and they are a jolly lot," said Julien. "The trip to Pearl Harbor Saturday and Sunday was a fine one, and I enjoyed it all the time."

He has been on a business trip to the Orient, but he had plenty of spare time to talk yachting with the clubs on the China coast and Japan, than when there are no more enthusiastic lovers of the sport the world over.

The Hongkong club had the only hydroplane of the Far East a year ago, and in addition to the sailing craft there were many cruising motor boats owned there by shipping men who made Hongkong their home port, and by the clerks and others employed in the city.

Julien has been talking international race here to be entered by clubs from the Orient, Australia, New Zealand and the west coast of the United States and Canada, and he believes this race will be a reality in a couple of years.

That racing is coming into its own again in Manila was evidenced last race day by the attendance at the San Lazaro track of that element which favors the game for sport's sake and by the absence of the crowd of parasites which does so much to discourage the "sport of kings."

The Manila Jockey Club has an ideal site for a course, and the grandstand, which faces a most beautiful tropical vista, has been renovated and is cool and comfortable. The club, since its reorganization, is of the strictest in all matters pertaining to the events, and the board of handicappers is showing unusual good judgment in the classification of the ponies—Manila Cablenews.

After being in semi-eclipse for several years, the racing game is on again in Manila this year in strong shape. The Filipino ponies are great runners, and the game seems to be conducted in a cleaner manner than it was at one time. Many a chap played the ponies at San Lazaro too strongly in the old days for his income, and could not tell the difference between his own and "Other People's Money" in consequence.

All the tennis fans are looking forward to the championship tennis of the Territory, which is scheduled to start May 17. Al Castle now holds the title in men's singles, R. A. and C. H. Cooke in the doubles. Mrs. Coulter in women's singles, and Mrs. Coulter and Novell in the mixed doubles.

At the Seaside Hotel May 12, the Myrtle Boat Club will hold a dance, which will start the social season among the boys of the waterfront clubs, and Foster Davis, in general charge of the program, promises a great evening. The dancing will start at 8 o'clock.

The next event on the calendar for Hawaii Yacht Club is the cruise to Waiwae, which will be made the middle of the present month.

We all like a good loser, but we aren't anxious to lend him money.

The Stewart Cup play at the Country Club has reached the semi-final stage, and Weight and Angus and Armstrong and Fouschek are the men who meet next, they having to play off their matches before May 13.

All the yachtsmen who went down to Pearl Harbor on Sunday are loud in their praise of the way the season started off, and they predict great things for the yachting world here this year.

On Thursday Eddie Fernandez will show the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures at a special matinee in the Orpheum, the general admission being 25 cents.

The meet of birdmen at Lihue promises to be the biggest event at the post for the year. Athletics of all kinds are in full swing, but the flight of Masson and Walker over the big post will eclipse everything else. Final arrangements are expected to be made within a day or two with the military authorities.
